

Fullers raise the bar on fire safety

Long established and highly successful brewing company, Fuller, Smith & Turner PLC has appointed fire safety specialist, Flamefast (UK) Ltd, of Wellingborough, as the nominated supplier to install and maintain kitchen fire suppression systems throughout the managed estate of Public Houses. The roll-out programme also includes the supply and installation of Flamefast GasGuard IV interlock systems, manufactured by Flamefast and fitted by their own Gas safe registered engineers.

The major investment in fire safety is just one of the many measures being brought in by the Fuller's management to safeguard staff, customers and property and to satisfy their own requirements of business continuity. Fuller's are the first independent brewers to take this proactive approach within their estate.

One of the breweries local inns, in Hammersmith, was the first of Fuller's managed houses to be fitted with the internationally renowned and market leader- Ansul R102 restaurant fire suppression system. The Ansul R102 is a fully mechanical system which operates by way of fusible link detection or manual pull station.

Nigel Roddie, General Manager of the fire suppression division, said of the newly won business, "Flamefast fire suppression is extremely proud to have won a roll out program of this magnitude, and especially so, for a world famous iconic brand such as Fuller's. It is testament to the continuing efforts of Flamefast staff and a just reward! Our fire suppression division consists of a carefully hand-picked team of highly experienced and qualified professionals within the fire suppression market sector. The Division has rocketed within two years to become one of the largest and most respected UK distributors of Ansul R102 kitchen fire suppression systems. This is due mainly to our commitment and determination to offer leading and unique products with total safety solutions, yet remain highly customer focused. We also have an unrivalled persistence to ensure that we correctly and efficiently interpret our clients' needs and deliver the project within time constraints and budget expectations, and continue this supplier-client relationship throughout the maintenance life of the product."
